SIXTY-TWO ROUNDS

A Sanguinary Prize Fight Under the London Rules.

Andrew Crombie Whipped by Tom Farrell.

The Contest Occurred in a Dancing Pavilion on the Hudson, and Was Pluckily Fought -Skin Gloves Were Worn-Cromble's Left Eye Was Closed Early in the Battle -Terrific Hammering Indulged in on Both Sides-The Fouls Were Even.

Seventy-five men witnessed an exceedingly sanguinary prize-fight of sixty-two rounds early this morning in a dancing pavilion on the New Jersey side of the Hudson River. about twenty miles above this city.

The principals were Tom Farrell, of Yonkers, and Andrew Crombie, of Irvington. The fight was to a finish, under the London prize-ring rules, with skin gloves, for $100 a side and a purse of about $100.

The match grew out of a dispute in a schoon a short time ago relative to the merits of Farrell as a pugilist. A man was to be produced from Irvington who could whip Farrell, and Crombie was presented, but he failed in his efforts to accomplish his mission. He was knocked out by Farrell at the

and of the sixty second round.

About five months ago Farrell fought his first battle with Jack Francis, of Dobbs Ferry, for the championship of Westchester County and was defeated. He is a very elever boxer and promises to be something of a prefligi clever boxer and promises to be something of a pugilist.

He is 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighs 147 pounds and is twenty-three years old.

Crombie had done some boxing, but had never before entered the prize-ring with skin gloves. He is 5 feet 9 inches tall, twenty-one years old and weighs 154 pounds.

The Irvington crowd of fifty men and the twenty-five expectant citizens of Yonkers met, after many difficulties, ou a wharf near Yonkers at a little before midnight.

At 12.30 they were all on board a steamer, and 1.39 o'clock found them all scrambling up the west bank of the Hudson, lanterns in hand, to the pavilion.

A ring was soon pitched on the floor and hand, to the pavilion.

A ring was soon pitched on the floor and the two aspirants for pugilistic honors and the money up were given a good preliminary slapping.

Meanwhile the anxious spectators stood

Meanwhile the anxious speciators stood around and shivered.

The light was very dim, there being only three small lanterns and a poor reflector, but that made no difference.

Farrell was seconted by Jim Connors, the light-weight, and Jack Francis seconded Crombie. Pete McManus, of Irvington, was referee.

Crombie won the toss, and his second chose the southeas: corner of the ring.
At 2.05 o'clock the two middle-weights entered the ring and at 2.22 shook hands and tered the ring and at 2.22 shook hands and went at each other.

Farrell started the fight by making a light pass at Crombie, and the next instant he found himself sprawling on the floor because of a blow on the chin. Time of round, 30s.

In the second round the men danced ar und the ring, exchanged several ineffective blows, cl nched and fell, Crombie on top.

In the third Farrell led with his left, Crombie failed to counter and Farrell dealt him a neat blow on the neck. Crombie tried the same tactics, with interest, on Farrell's jaw, The men clinched and went down, Farrell underneath.

jaw, The men clinched and went down, Farrell underneath.

The fourth round was lively and interesting. Crombie led with a whack on Farrell's bresst, when Farrell rallied and gave him four beauties, one after the other, on the head. One blow landed squarely on Crombie's left eye, and the effect was seen almost instantly. The fighters waited an instant, and Farrell, taking advantage of an opening, gave Crombie two more terrible blows, one on the eye and one on the side of the head, and followed these with one on the cheek.
This was too much for Crombie, who clinched, and down both men went, Farrell on the floor.

As usual, at the beginning of the next floor.

As usual, at the beginning of the next round Farrell commenced the fighting, and in about a second another telling blow sounded on Crombie's left eye. This made Crombie angry, and he aimed a sledge-ham-mer drive at Farrell's nose. It fa'led to reach its mark, as Farrell executed a quick dodge and wheeling on Crombie knocked him over onto his back with a blow on the neck.

The sixth, seventh and eighth rounds were short and devoid of interest. Farrell struck at Crombie, who clinched to avoid punish at Crombie, who clinched to avoid punish. ment and the two went down, Crombie or

When Crombie came to the scratch in the when Crombie came to the scratch in the tenth his left eye was completely closed. Farrell changed his tactics and tried to close the other eye, but could not use his left to advantage. He knocked Crombie down with an upper cut, and the round ended amid shouts of executions. shouts of encouragement from the Yonkers

In the eleventh round Crombie claimed a foul on Farrell's dropping, but it was not allowed. From the eleventh to the twentieth round the fighting was kept up in about the same way.

In the twenty-seventh round Crombie forced the fighting. He had received the most punishment, while Farrell was comparatively fresa. Both were covered with blood. Crombie forced Farrell against the edge of the ring and gave him a good hammering.

Crombie seemed inclined to keep up this sort of thing and Farrell tried to avoid him, holding his own strength while Crombie was growing weak in the arms and out of breath. The thirty-fourth round ended with both men whacking their heads against the ficor simultaneously.

men whacking their heads against the floor simultaneously.

Farrell began to force the fight in the fortieth round, and ended round forty-two by knocking Crombie down.

Crombie returned the compliment in the forty-fifth, but spoiled his good record in the forty-fifth, but spoiled his good record in the forty-sixth by striking Farrell on the head when the latter had fallen farrly.

Just as the first streak of daylight was seen over the eastern bank of the Hudson, at the fifty-third round, the spectators saw that it was only a question of a few rounds before Orombie would be knocked out. His left eye presented a shocking sight being swollen as large as a man's fist. But he had good grit and responded promptly at the call of time.

Farrell, on the other hand, was comparatively fresh. His only marks were several small lumps on the side of the head and swollen lips. One eye was slightly difigured, and his face was besmeared with blood.

In the sixtieth round Cromble rallied, and inspired by despe ation, pain and anger, hit Farrell a stunning blow on the mouth, knocking him clear off his feet.

Then Connors, Farrell's second, told him to "wade in " and end the fight. He fought strongly in the sixty-first, and in the last round had everything his own way. The fight ended when Farrell, having driven Crombie against the ropes, beat down his weak guard, and, deliberately taking aim, struck him a terrible blow on the left eye. Blood flew, and Crombie sank to the floor without a groan.

The fouls which were not allowed were place this morning on the Mall in Central rithout a groan.

The fouls, which were not allowed, were

The fouls, which were not allowed, were even. Farrell dropped purposely twice to escape blows, and Crombie struck Farrell twice when he was down. Crombie proved the better wrestler.

It was 3.20 when the fight ended, and the sun was just rising over the Hudson River when the party boarded the little steamer and began talking about what would have happened "if."

MR. MURRAY STILL AWAY FROM HOME.

His Mother-in-Law Sent Two Messengers To-Day, but They Did Not Reach Him.

Old John Boyle Murray was closely guarded in his room in the New York Hotel this morning by his sister, "Ledy Agnes," and her companion, Mrs. Stephenson. They have shown no disposition to seek a change of quarters at present, and object to let any nembers of his wife's family or any stranger members of his wife's family or any strangers see the blind old man.

It was stated this morning at Mr. Murray's residence, 13 Washington place, that his young wife was still very iil.

Her mother, Mrs. Leiss, told a reporter of The Eventure World that, trusting in the published report of Mr. Murray's statement that he desired to return to his home, she had this morning sent two messengers to the hotel to see him, but both had been refused admission by Miss Agnes Murray.

SWINDLER RENSON'S SUICIDE

Detectives Anxious to Know if the Reward Offered in Mexico Will Be Paid Now.

The body of George Clinchwood, alias Harry Benson, the noted swindler and forger, who committed suicide by jumping from the third tier in Ludlow Street Jail last evening, was removed to the Morgue this morning.

Warden Keating attaches no blame to Keeper Powers, who was in charge of Benson at the time. He says it would be practically impossible to prevent such a thing hap-cally impossible to prevent such a thing happening any prisoner.

After a lifetime spent in daring criminal schemes, Benson was arrested by Inspector Byrnes on a charge of defrauding the people of the City of Mexico out of $40,000 by selling forged Patit tickets. He then had more than $6,400 and valuable clothing and jewelry hidden away, which was afterwards seized, when on March 29 he tried to bribe Keeper John F. McCabe with $1,000 to help him escape.

Much of this property is still in the hands of the police, and it is expected that out of it his funeral expenses will be paid.

John Kelly, Benson's valet and accomplice, is now in the Tombs on a charge of conspiracy to bring about Benson's escape.

The Headquar ers de ectives are apprehensive that in consequence of Benson's suicide they will lose the $1,000 reward offered by the Mexican Government for ms apprehension and return to Mexican soil. The suicide creates no surprise among the detectives, as Benson had said repeatedly that he would not be taken to Mexico alive, expressing the belief that they would kill him. In a letter sent to Kelly, bis co.conspirator, he said:

The papers in the case have not yet reached the District-Attorney's office. Assistant District-Attorney Lindsay said to-day that there was no likelihood of the Grand Jury find ng an indictment against either Mrs. Scofield or Brother-in-Law Ferris. Primary Department remarked that she had heard that Miss Mason was to be asked to resign the next day. She said that rumor was false, however.

'Miss Mason has been summoned before President Simmons, of the Board of Education, by Sunt. Jasper, and has also appeared before the Superintendent and myself, to explain the anonymous arraignment of her character, all within the past week. She has also been and is still being investigated by a committee of the Board of Trustees of the Fifteenth Ward.

Mrs. Dodge brought the case to the attention of Miss Alice Pine, of 31 West Tenth street, one of the trustees, who placed it before the Board.

Emerson Foote, J. A. Hardenberg and Dudley C. Gautier were appointed a committee, Miss Pine refusing to serve, though requested.

On Monday last Supt. Jasper requested Miss Mason to stop teaching until the thorough investigation which the trustees are making should be concluded. She accordingly did not appear on Tuesday, but the trustees, hearing of the matter, directed her to return to her class, which she did yesterday. They stated that they had no evidence against her and she should not leave until found guilty. until found guilty.

Principal Gates said that the only objection he has ever heard made to Miss Mason is that she is rather loud and pronounced in dress, but that is, he thought, rather a question of good taste than morality. With regard to the accusation said to be made in the affidavits in the possession of Miss Dodge that Miss Mason had been twice brought to death's door through her relations with McMaster, Mr. Gates said that tions with McMaster, Mr. Gates said that the longest absence from her duties in any on-year was twelve days, and then she was burying her mother and arranging her family affairs in the South. That was eight years ago. Since then she has not been ab-sent from school more than one day at a time, with an aggregate of about three days each year.

He is charged with incompetency and he said that he stood ready to meet the charges. His answer to his accusers regarding his action in the case of Miss Mason was contained in his letter to Commissioner O'Brien, which was read before the Commissioners at vesterday's meeting.

O'Brien, which was read before the Commissioners at yesterday's meeting.

He thought it a terrible thing to destroy a young woman's character by acting publicly on an anonymous communication, and thought that his action in waiting for legal evidence and definite proof should be commended.

Mr. Jasper thought that the Board would find it difficult to secure a man for Superintendent who would be acceptable to each of the 4,000 teachers of the public schools.

WILL ANARCHY SPLIT THE TURNERS. August Spice's Old Lodge Introduces a Box of Contention into the Order.

ispecial to the world.! Chicago, May 16.—Five hundred delegates, repesenting the thirty thousand members of the North American Turner Bund, will meet here in bi-annual session next week and there is every bi-annual session next week and there is every prospect that they will have a lively time. For aix months a quarrel has been growing up in the order out of the handing of August Sides and the rest of the Anarchists last fall. Spies was a Turner and after the execution the Autora Turners, to which he belonged, adopted fiery resolutions of indignation and sent them with plottness of the deal Anarchists to all the Turner societies in the country, with requests that the resolutions be indorsed. The Turn Vereins in Chelinatt, St. Lonis, Milwankee and Buffalo took offense at this and sent out resolutions denouncing the action of the Autora Turn Verein.

The Autoras are mostly Anarchists, and they have been carring on a bitter war ever since.

The Auroras are mostly Anarchists, and they have been carrying on a bitter war ever since. The quistion will come up as soon as the Board meets, when the Anarchists will try nard to have the resolutions in regard to Spics and his comrades adopted. They say that if they fail in this they will seed and form a Turner society of their own. They are believed to be in a hopeless minority in the Board. London Wante the Entire $7,500,000

Others Injured. THE SHOCK FELT MILES AWAY.

INPRCIAL TO THE WORLD. LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., May 17 .- A frightful explosion shook the country for miles around here at 7.30 this morning.

Houses were rocked to and fro and windows were rattled and broken as though by an earthquake. At first it was thought that an earthquake had occurred. People ran from their houses into the streets and gathered in excited groups. It was soon afterwards learned, however, that the noise and shock were due to a terrific explosion of 125 kegs of powder and 200 pounds of dynamite at Stockton, a small town on the Belvidere Railroad, a few miles north of Lamber ville.

The explosion occurred in the Stockton

Three men were killed outright.
Many others were injured.
One of the dead men was the foreman of the works. The other two were workmen.
Eye-witnesses of the explosion say that the shock was remendous. There were 128 kegs of powder and 200 pounds of dynamite in the quarries at the time and all exploded with a rightful concussion.

There was a sudden upheaval of the buildings where the stuff was stored and the next instant a white cloud tinged with black and yellow smoke shot into the air.

The building flew into the air in splinters, which fell in great showers of dust and debris for many rods around.

The ground after the explosion looked as though the building had been run through a hopper and sprinkled over the surrounding territory.

The bedies of the three were were blees.

The bodies of the three men were blown into small pieces. The ground for some dis-tance was dotted with bits of flesh and spots as possible. Medical aid was sent for at once.

Great damage was done to property in the neighborhood. There is not a whole pane of glass left in the village or Stockton.

The shock was felt for a long distance up and down the Delaware river and far back into the country, as well as in Pennsylvania. At Burlington the people ran out of their houses, thinking that an earthquake had shaken the town. At Beverly and Edgewater Park the shock was felt severely. As far down the river as Riverton, a distance of more than thirty miles, the concussion startled the people.

more than thirty miles, the concussion startled the people.

The shock at Bordentown and Hightstown was very severe. The noise of the explosion was very loud.

The cause of the explosion is unknown, as the men who were landling the stuff in the building are now dead.

The powder house was owned by Wyman & Co.

A number of large and small stones were dislocated from the quarry and hurled for many feet. The flying fragments ignited two of the neighboring barns, but they were not entirely consumed.

The reports are coming in of a large number of people who have been injured by being struck with flying timber and the parts of machinery which were sont over the county for half a mile or more. Jacob Suyder, of Camden, narrowly escaped death while driving a quarter of a mile from the scene. A large iron bolt came crashing through the top of his carriage. He leaned forward at the critical moment to tighten his grip on the reins and the bolt grazed his back.

points.

The foreman, John Keltsv, was blown all to pieces and there is hardly enough left of him to fill a bucket.

People are running around with gashed faces, the result of being struck by flying missiles. A hasty estimate shows that at least twenty people have been alightly injured in that way.
